“ Sheery and kids, I just heard that our beloved DR is now flying a plane while marching in a great band in heaven! It&s been over 28 years since I was so blessed to be instructed by this quirky, funny, loveable and talented man! Oh, the fun we had that he made for us! He was such a mentor to our musical minds, and even some of us who were&nt so inclined to be musical! He touched so many and due to that his band will play on forever! Psalm 33:2-3 "Praise the Lord with the harp; make music to him on the ten-stringed lyre. Sing to Him a new song; play skillfully, and shout for joy." My prayers are with you!

“ I was shocked and saddened to hear the world had lost such a good man as Danny Rock. It has been years since I had seen you two, but Dan and I had emailed last summer and joked about different marching bands that did not have the great leadership of a good band leader like him. "Mr. Rock" taught my children to love music. Both you and Dan were special friends at Buffalo. My heart hurts for you Sherry. He loved you so, and you will miss him so much.

“ DR was a great man and will be greatly missed. He was given a rare talent in the ability to teach music and share that gift with others. My best High School memories are centered around the AHS music program and he&s right in the middle of them. He touched so many lives and we still carry the music with us today. May God bless you and your family as knowing DR has blessed us. My prayers are with you Sherry and with your family.

“ Sherry and family,
Just sending so many thoughts and prayers your way at this sad time. I was honored to have D.R. as a band director AND as a flight instructor, so I have tons of wonderful memories.
The thing I remember most is his sense of humor and ability to ALWAYS make me laugh (cracking jokes in band or &buzzing& farmers in the field). I honestly can't think of him without smiling...
He was one patient guy - that's for sure!
D.R. touched the lives of so many in such a positive way. What an amazing legacy..
With deepest sympathy, Lisa

“ Sherry and family: We are very sad right now, hearing of Danny&s passing. Dan was a very positive and warm person and very generous with his time to anyone who needed his help. We had the opportunity to meet most of his wonderful family and were impressed at the good feelings we received from all--seems that it runs in the family!

As a fellow aviator, I am proud thinking of his legacy in teaching all those pilots over the years, spreading the love of flight as he did. I hope our thoughts and prayers are a token of our sympathy and that you will be surrounded by your loved ones and friends in this trying time.

I will miss Danny, too.

“ Sherry, Corey, Ryan, Lezlie, and Lisa, So sorry to hear about Dr. Rock. D.R. will be missed by many as he had a tremendous impact on their lives. He was definitely a positive influence in my life. It was a joy to have him as a band director eventhough he might tend to disagree on a couple of specific instances I recall. He had a tremendous heart and a passion for making the world a better place. It was an honor to know him and be a student of his.

“ Danny was a great friend and fellow aviator. I remember his excitement when Rock and Sherry bought their Bonanza and I had the pleasure of TEACHING HIM some of the finer aspects of flying it. I'm sure it's an astonishing number - if one counted all the pilots Rock created over the years. The aviation community, as well as Alva - will miss him. Know that he finally went West with all the other aviation greats!

“ I first met Danny through the Alva airport. We exchanged many emails and had many conversations, mostly about flying. In fact, he gave me two of the most professional BFRs that I've received. He was always friendly and always had a smile on his face and a laugh in his voice. I'll miss seeing him around the airport. My most sincere condolences to Sherry and family. My thoughts and prayers are with you at this difficult time.

“ Sherry and Family, I was so sorry to hear about Danny&s death. I enjoyed seeing you and Danny while I was in Alva in June for our 50th reunion, and I was fortunate enough to be able to visit in your beautiful home. We haven&t seen each other often over the years, but I have many wonderful memories of our lifelong friendship which flowered in high school. I send good wishes to your family from Redmond, WA. Sherry, if you ever go to visit your son in Mukilteo, I live less than an hour from there and would love to see you. Fondly,

“ Saying goodbye to a good friend is hard by Helen Shaw Barrett on Saturday, April 16, 2011 at 10:59am Last night, one of my friends slipped from the confines of a body that no longer responded to his thoughts and wishes. He taught my kids to play their band instruments better, to march with pride, and to enjoy music. He taught me life was too short to be unhappy, to put my fears aside, to spread my wings and fly -- literally. Danny Rock left this world, but the memories of him will never die. Many times after letting me "vent" on topics ranging from local government inequities, education, job stress or marriage, he would say something encouraging and end with "Don't forget to smile." Or, "are you smiling yet?" He enjoyed his role as "cheerleader" to everyone he met. We joked about his looking good in his cheerleader outfit. Long instant message chats saved my sanity repeatedly over the years. He fought fiercely for improvements at the Alva Airport. While serving on the Airport Commission, "the Port" became his home away from home. He was unafraid of fighting City Hall over what he believed rightfully belonged to the "Port." When board meetings would get heated and tense, Danny often just sat there, say what needed to be said and smile. That smile kept the tension from getting out of hand. During the summer he often loaded his own mower on his trailer to mow his "island" around his hangars. Unselfishly, he helped neighboring pilots repair their planes or the doors on their hangars, usually without a thank you. Flying was a passion. He flew frequently to Beaver to check on his mama cows and their babies. Flying his own plane got him from Alva's "front door" to Nevada, Washington, Texas, New Orleans and other places to visit his kids or compete in a bowling tournament, another passion. He learned to fly as a kid from his dad, and he was proud that his sons shared his passion. They agreed to being featured in one of my stories of the three generations of pilots titled "When Rocks Fly." The interview time was filled with laughs and family stories. Several of Danny's students went on to aviation careers, but they frequently came back to fly his Cessna 150 for fun. Danny was a very persuasive person. He chided me until I signed up for his ground school class. My first flight came during a lunch break from work. We went over the check list before crawling in the plane and fastening our seat belts. My stomach was in my throat and my heart beat rapidly like a bass drum gone wild. He guided the plane with ease into the air then told me I had control. My hands gripped the yoke so hard my fingers became numb. He repeatedly tapped my fingers and told me to relax, that flying was easy and I needed to remember to use my feet. It was an incredible experience that I was privileged to repeat two more times, with less fear and more excitement each time. Once when it was time to again enroll in ground school, I really didn't have the money for the fees. He said, "You're taking it. I'll pay for it and you can pay me back." With each payment, I said a heart-felt thank you. "You're not the first student I've helped," he said. "I've helped a lot of kids get their license and nobody ever knew." That's the way he was -- generous with his time and his assets. Danny was a strong man. After losing both of his parents, he shouldered the heavy responsibility of settling their estate as executor -- a task he finished just before learning of his diagnosis of ALS -- Lou Gehrig's disease. He meticulously worked to insure an equal distribution between himself and his sisters, enduring heavy stress throughout the process. He always credited his wife, Sherry, with the way his sons and daughters became such upstanding citizens. He obviously adored all of them, especially Sherry. Christmas parties at the Rock house were the highlight of the year for his students. Sherry cooked the chilli and cake while everyone discussed flying and other fun topics. Each session ended in the living room, gathered around the piano singing Christmas songs. Danny would bring out h
