“ Our deepest apologies for not being able to attend the funeral. The fondest memory of Jake. That I can remember. When i was younger. We had a cat that loved to sleep on-top of the TV. Every time Jake had come to the house. The cat was there sleeping. Dad and Jake the day it happened. Was watching a game on TV. And the cat stood up and stretched. Jake had always thought the cat was a stuffed animal. The emotional outcry from Jake will be forever in bedded in my memories of him. Our prayers are with all of the family. Hope to be able to visit everyone soon.

“ Uncle Bud was more than just an uncle to me. He was also a teacher, confidant, and most of all my friend. From an early age, I admired Jake so much. Heroes come in different forms to different people. He has always been one of mine. I will always remember the times spent with he and uncle Jim at Granny&s farm where I earned a PHD in nature, guns, old tractors, how to properly cuss, and life in general. The many hours spent blacksmithing (which was mostly a cover activity for times when I needed to talk to my friend) who would listen, and not be judgmental. I have missed those times with Jake..... And I always will. I do however, look forward to the time we can all be together again, in our new bodies that will NEVER grow old.

“ I&ve been missing Jake for quite some time now. A "Jack of all trades, Master of None" is what I heard through his lips as well as his buddy Sam. Extremely talented man and one of the best gun ballistic person in Oklahoma. I wish I was as half as smart as he was--He could do anything and it was right the first time. He&s in no pain now, forever and forever. Mark

“ I am so sorry for your loss. There is a time for grieving then comes a time for healing, and one day soon we will all see Uncle Bud again. He is now with my dad (Jim) and his other sibblings, granny too, and grandad, but of course Carol Ann is there too. As they look down on us, lets all pray we get to see them again, maybe on granny&s farm where I grew up. Love to all. Deb and Rob
