“ To the friends and family of Marquitta. I was trying to locate her and came across her obituary. I wanted you to know what a difference she made in my life though we only met once. We sat next to each other on a plane. I was flying to Oklahoma for the funeral of my father-in-law. I had been separated from my husband for almost 2 year and we had just reconciled over the phone. He had a flight down to Houston to see me the following Weds and his father died unexpectedly on Tues. We reversed the ticket and I was physically and emotionally exhausted when I met Marquitta. She was so kind and helpful. We talked as if we&d been friends all of our lives. We found that we shared the same wedding anniversary. She gave me a lotta love and advice and good wishes in that short amount of time. We both felt our meeting was no coincidence. My husband and I put our marriage back together and we now have 2 grandboys we enjoy. I am so thankful to have met Marquitta and know I will see her again. My belated but sincerest condolences and love to all who were a part of her life.

“Ketta, Hearing of your death has brought back so many happy memories. I was 10 when you were born, and being an only, I had always wanted a baby sister. I think I pretended you were that one. I always looked forward to your visits at the farm, even if you did give me chicken pox and named me "Gaggie". (I guess you just couldn't handle those "s&s", oh well I forgave you). I also had great times visiting Grands Thompsons, living next door to you where I could easily slip next door and play with you and Bev. You were my little dolls. I'd play with you, dress you and fix your hair (which I don't think either of you especially liked). I loved our trips to Joyland. We always worried about you sitting so close to the TV, afraid you would ruin your eyes. Little did we know you had to sit that close to see it. Think you got your glasses before you went to school. Then as years passed you were older, I went to college and Grandpa gave you my beloved Monty. I was a bit jealous at first, but realized he had someone who rode the daylights out of him and loved him as much as I. Your life has certainly been an ups and downs journey, but am so thankful you found the love of your life in Mike. Although your years were short with him, the quality you had made up for it. I wish you had written a book about all the two of you did and saw in your years on the road. I only got to know your children through you, but I know they had the most loving mother children could have. I will always remember your sweet, sweet smile, and just as everything was beautiful to you here on earth.....it will be more so on the other side to which you have now crossed. May God keep you in his tender care, my beloved cousin.

“ Beverly, Tim and Tona, Best anecdotal version of Ketta&s untimely demise I heard: She loved horses, and probably died smiling. I was told she was riding when God snatched her. What a way to go, Girl!! Here, God, you take the reins. Our condolences. Con & Ana “ Bev - I really appreciated the phone call even if it was to relay to overwhelming news of Ketta&s passing.
